

FILMABEND /FILM SCREENING

1000 ARTEN REGEN ZU BESCHREIBEN - DIFFERENT KINDS OF RAIN

MITTWOCH/WEDNESDAY 27.02.19/2/27 um/at 19.00 Uhr /7 pm ORTEGA HALL 153

Regie/Director: Isabel Prahl - 2017 - 91 mins. - Germany – German with English Subtitles

This film transposes the Japanese phenomenon of Hikikomori - acute social withdrawal - onto a German context. The 18-year old Micha locks himself into his room and refuses to come out. The film explores how it affects the family and relationships within the family. According to Wikipedia, it is estimated that about half a million Japanese youth have chosen extreme degrees of isolation and withdrawal. (Warning! This is not a Hollywood film, i.e. slow and not much action, you'll have to watch it to figure out whether there is a Happy End or not)

FREE PIZZA!!!! COMPLIMENTS OF THE GERMAN CLUB

The film screening will be followed by a discussion for all those interested.
Ortega Hall 153 can be accessed from the outside of the east side of the building.
Please contact Katja Schröter (katja@unm.edu) for further information or with questions.

Organized by the German Program of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures at UNM

